

THE ECO LUXURY HOUSEBOAT SRINAGAR, JAMMU & KASHMIR

Srinagar – The verdant valley of Kashmir is a land of lakes and waterways, beautiful gardens and wooden architecture that leave you speechless. In the 19th-century, some of Srinagar’s boat-dwelling community started building larger versions of their own homes to cater to visitors. Sukoon brings this traditional concept of a residential houseboat into the modern era, while losing none of the charm of history. Surrounded by lotuses with clear views of the pristine peaks of the Himalayas, Sukoon has carved a niche of its own. Sukoon is a Sufi term for an elevated state of mind that combines peace, wisdom and contentment. The houseboat Sukoon brings these qualities for you to savour. It has been created as a haven where you can relax and revitalise. By day you can watch life go by on the lake at the same unhurried pace it has done for centuries; at night you can dine under the endless canopy of brilliant stars, lulled by the gently lapping water.

- Accommodation – Spacious and stylish, all rooms are en suite and feature traditional furniture, glimmering pine-wood floors and large windows offering views of the lake.
- Eco-friendly – The Sufis teach that all life is inter-connected, and Sukoon is well-aware of its ecological responsibilities. It is the first houseboat in Kashmir to be fitted with a bio-tank, which means no waste is discharged into the lake. All drinking water is purified by the latest method of Reverse Osmosis, thus doing away with the need for plastic bottles. Furthermore, local and organically produced materials are used where possible.
